Today's employees want to learn.

They are dedicated to advancing their professional development, and we help them do just that. The Game CHAnger program provides early career professionals the opportunity to develop new skills, discover their strengths, and stay engaged through opportunities to be involved in challenging, interesting and exciting work.

Designed for those with a passion for engineering, a drive for creating solutions and improving our world, this program accelerates participants' professional and technical development through participation in a rotational cycle of business-critical engineering assignments, supplemented by structured learning opportunities, and an important mentor partnership.
